NEW TIME GOES IN JACKSON BOOM FOR EFFECT MARCH 30 GOVERNOR OPENED

Clocks Throughout The Nation Will Be Moved Forward One Hour on Next Sunday.

GIVES MORE DAYLIGHT HOURS IN CHARGE OF CAMP PURDUE

Railroad Schedules to Remain Same, Though Few Trains May Be Held at Terminals for An Hour.

The daylight saving schedule which was followed last summer for the first time in the United States, will again go into effect at 2 o'clock Sunday morning March 30. It appears that there was some dispute as to the exact hour when the clocks will be moved forward one hour, but according to the best information obtainable here the change will be made two hours after midnight Saturday.

The confusion as to the date is due to the wording and the evident intent of the law providing for the new schedule which was passed by the congress in the early spring of 1918. The law provides that the change shall be made on March 31 at 2 a. m., but was enacted with particular reference to 1918. The date was fixed because last year March 31 came on Sunday, but this year March 31 falls on Monday. However, it is the evident intent of congress to make the change on Sunday.

It is known that congress intended to make some changes in the daylight saving law, and probably repeal it altogether, but the filibuster which was staged during the closing hours of the session prevented any discussion of the law. As a result the former law stands as it was enacted in 1918.

The clocks are changed on Sunday morning because of convenience for the railroads. There are fewer trains operated on Sunday morning than at any other time of the week. The local Baltimore & Ohio offices have received official word that the clocks will be moved forward at 2 o'clock Sunday morning, so it is known that the railroads will follow the new schedule after that time, regardless of what others may do. However, in view of the fact that the public is inclined to adopt the same time that the railroads do it is expected that the change will be made throughout the country at that hour.

MAJOR O. E. ABEL EXPECTS TO BE HOME BY JULY 1

Local Man Who Organized Co. K, Indiana National Guard, With Army of Occupation.

Oren O. Swails received a letter this morning from Major Oscar B. Abel stating that he expected to be in Seymour by July 1. Major Abel is with the 355 infantry and is now stationed at Beurig-Saargburg, Germany. He is a member of the 89th Division which has received orders to prepare for the return trip to the United States early in June.

Major Abel writes that he met Lieut. Harlan Montgomery at Le Mans France, in November. Since that time he has been moving with the Army of Occupation. In previous letters to friends here he tells interesting tales of his trip through Germany. He supports Lieut. Willis Greene, formerly of Co. K Ind. N. G. organized in this city, in his assertion that Germany is the land where the people "grow long hair and eat out of your hand."

In a letter recently received by W. E. Weller, Major Abel speaks with pride of the "boys over here." He says that once the American soldier met the enemy he fought like the whole war depended entirely upon his own energy. The French and English were surprised at the constant refusal of the Americans to retire to rest billets during the days of a big drive. It was their idea to get the "Heimies" out of their underworld and "give 'em the cold steel" in open warfare.

Lafayette Courier Declares Politicians Are Looking Towards Former Secretary of State.

Judge Jackson Formerly Held Interests Near Here and Friends Are Watching Developments.

Major Ed Jackson, who was in charge of Camp Purdue, is regarded as a likely candidate for the Republican nomination for governor in 1920 and a well defined boom has been started for him by the Lafayette Courier. Jackson was formerly secretary of state, but resigned that position to enter the officers' training camp at Fort Benjamin Harrison. He received a commission as captain, but later was promoted to a majority. He formerly owned an orchard near this city and because of his wide acquaintance in this county the article printed in the Lafayette Courier is of general interest here. The Lafayette paper says:

Although the 1920 election is still many months away, there is already much political talk going on over the state regarding the prospective candidates for the various offices in Indiana. Naturally the talk centers on the gubernatorial nominee, and the Republicans are casting about for a likely candidate. There are many who feel that the next governor of Indiana will be a military man who has made the sacrifices for his country in the titanic struggle that America brought to so successful a conclusion. Already three men have been mentioned for the highest honor in the gift of the Hoosier voter, but to date no definite announcement has been made by any of them as to whether

OUTSIDE CONCERN MAY OPEN NEW ADDITION

Chamber of Commerce Officials Said to be Negotiating With The Company.

It has been learned through an official of the Seymour Chamber of Commerce that a proposition is on foot whereby outside interests propose to purchase a tract of land on the city limits and build a number of modern cottages.

The concern that proposes to build these houses will endeavor to secure from twenty to forty acres of land bordering on the city limits and construct an addition that may later be incorporated. The buildings are all to be of the five to eight room cottage type, modern in every respect. No house is to be rented but any of them will be sold on easy payments.

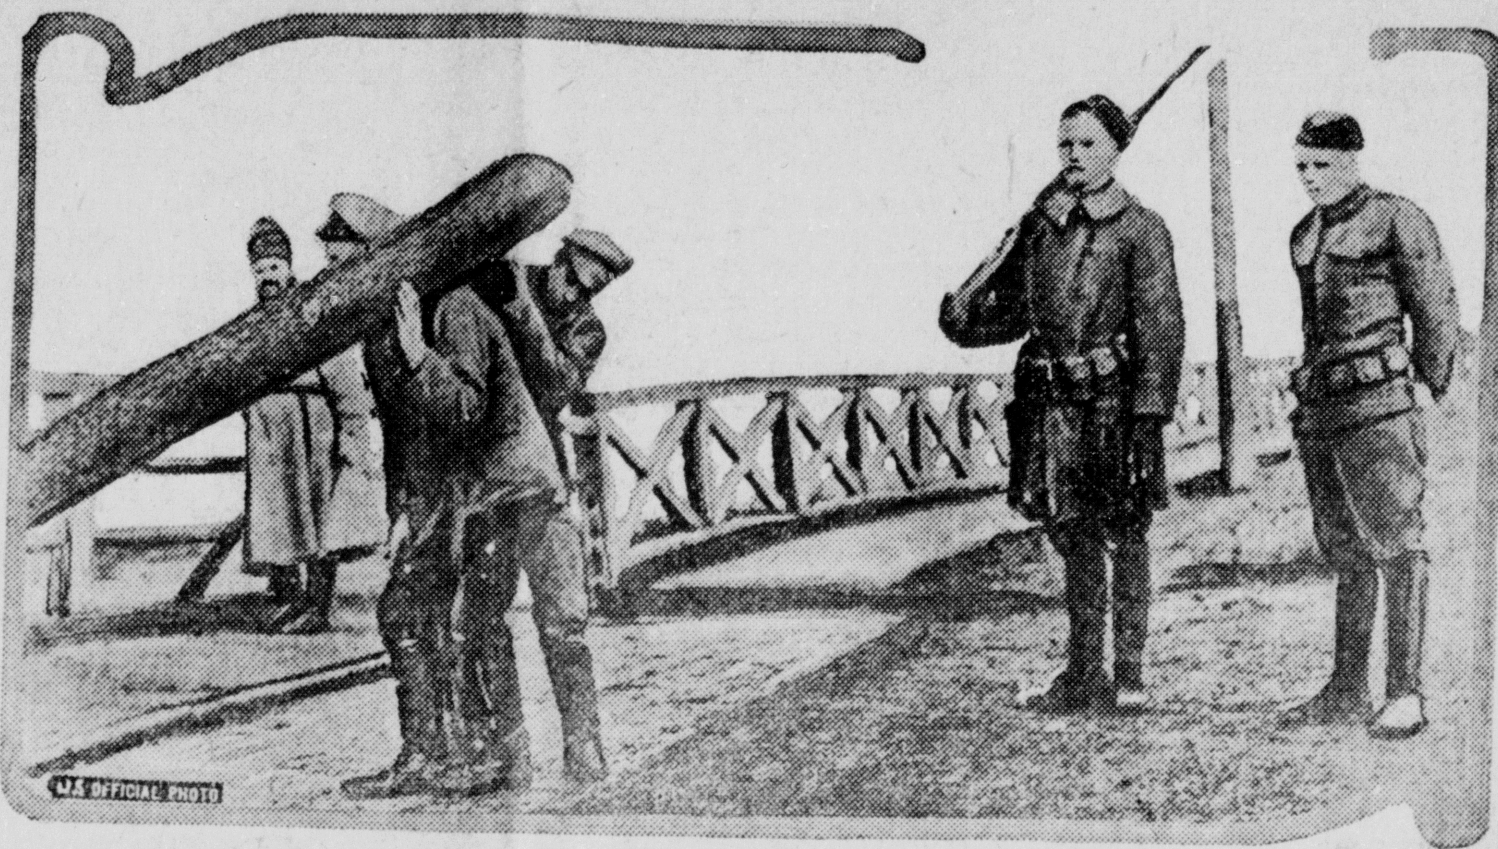

At present the Chamber is not at liberty to disclose the identity of the company or any of its plans which are expected to bring forth immediate developments.

ROACH BOUND OVER TO CIRCUIT COURT

Bond of $500 Fixed for Local Man Who is Charged with Aiding in Passing Fraudulent Check.

HALL WAIVES PRELIMINARY

Claude Strange, Who Presented Check, Testifies He Gave Roach $10 For His Endorsement.

Following a preliminary hearing which lasted for almost three hours in Mayor Burkart's court at the city building Monday night, Carl La Roach, charged with aiding in the issuance of a fraudulent check, was bound over to circuit court. In default of bond which was fixed at $500, La Roach was taken to the county jail to await trial. Claude Strange, who admitted he presented the check at the Seymour National Bank Saturday night, and Chauncey Hall, held as an accomplice, both of Indianapolis, were also placed in the county jail. Strange's bond was fixed at $1,000. Hall told the court he was not in a position to furnish bail in any amount and would have to await trial in the county jail.

The preliminary hearing in La Roach's case was heard by a crowded room. He was represented by E. P. Elsner who contended that there was not sufficient evidence to justify the authorities in holding him for trial and that the defendant ought to be released. He presented to the court two credentials from parties who have employed Roach and said these showed him to be a man of good character.

Roach contended that he had met Strange in Indianapolis several months ago and thought that he was good for the amount of the check. He said he readily consented to endorse the check when he met Strange here. Roach's attorney insisted that there was no evidence to show that the defendant was an accomplice of Strange in passing the check and was an unfortunate victim of circumstances.

John H. Kamman, deputy prosecutor, handled the case for the state. He placed Strange on the stand, who testified that he did not know Roach until they met in a local pool room about 3 o'clock Saturday afternoon. He testified that he gave the defendant $10 to identify him at the bank. It was shown that Roach tried to get a $10 bill changed on Saturday evening, but the police were unable to find the money on him when he was searched after his arrest.

Public Meetings Prohibited.

Dublin, March 25—A special order was issued today by British military officials prohibiting the holding of any meetings or processions tomorrow. Announcement was made in the Sinn Fein quarters recently that Prof. Edward DeValera, who has been in hiding since his escape from prison, would publicly appear in Dublin tomorrow and assume his place as head of the Irish republic.

PARK DIRECTORS ORGANIZE BOARD

W. L. Johnson Elected President, Fred Able Vice-President and T. S. Blish, Sec'y.-Treas.

PLANS FOR THE SUMMER

Ministerial Association Given Permission to Conduct Union Services at Tabernacle.

The park directors who were recently appointed by the city council held a meeting Monday afternoon for the purpose of organizing the board and to discuss tentative plans for the summer. The directors elected officers as follows:

President—W. L. Johnson. Vice-President—Fred Able. Secretary-Treasurer—T. S. Blish. The directors of the park decided to sell the concession privilege this summer to the highest bidder and the advertisement for bids appears in another column of this issue. The concession will be awarded to the highest bidder, under certain regulations which are set out. The stand, under the conditions which are specified, ought to be an attractive business venture for some one as the directors are expecting that the attendance at the park will be larger this year than ever before.

The directors will ask the council to provide additional lights for the (Continued on page 7, column 2.)

FORMER POLICEMAN FINED FOR LIQUOR LAW VIOLATION

John Ruddick Pleads Guilty to Having Five Quarts of Whiskey in His Possession.

John Ruddick, a former policeman in this city, was arrested late Monday night by Policeman Marion Weddell as he stepped from a north-bound Pennsylvania train, carrying a satchel in which were five quarts of whiskey. He was charged with having liquor in his possession in violation of the state prohibition law. Ruddick entered a plea of guilty and was fined $50 and costs, totaling $80, by Mayor Burkart in police court. The fine and costs were paid.

Tchinchin's Statement.

Copenhagen, March 25—Foreign Minister Tchinchin has sent the following message from Moscow to Budapest, according to a Vienna dispatch:

"The appearance of an ally in central Europe is most valuable to us. Ukrainian soviet troops are now approaching Galicia. We thus are near our Hungarian ally who is in our enemy's rear. The situation is difficult owing to the fresh offensive of the Germans in the north, the Poles in the south and General Petlura's Ukrainians in the south. But fresh troops will be collected against them. The situation of our Lettish and Lithuanian allies is the most difficult of all."

TROOPS MUST BE SENT TO HUNGARY

Allied Representatives There Say Reinforcements Can Save The Situation.

EARLY PEACE IS REQUIRED

Hope, Instead of Confidence, Expressed That Draft Would be Ready Saturday.

By United Press.

Paris, March 25—American or allied troops must be rushed into Hungary at once to save the situation, was the opinion expressed in advices received today by the peace conference by its agents in that country.

The allied forces now in Hungary are entirely inadequate, it was stated, and must be reinforced to prevent bolshevism from obtaining a foothold from which it can spread into western Europe.

The conference has been deeply impressed by the Hungary government and the reported decision of war against the entente. Every effort is being made to speed up the peace settlement with Germany and the other enemy countries. One of the most potent weapons in the hands of the allies to prevent the spread of bolshevism westward, will be re-establishment of normal economic conditions in central Europe, the delegates agree.

Despite the recognized necessity for hurrying preparations for the preliminary treaty, only hope instead of confidence is expressed today that the terms would be ready by Saturday, as indicated earlier. Reparation is one of the big problems, owing to the inability of the conferees to agree as to what Germany can pay.

The supreme war council proceeded with its routine business yesterday but all the delegates showed the greatest desire to obtain all information possible regarding the Hungarian situation.

Despite the necessity for hurrying preparation of the preliminary treaty there was only hope instead of confidence expressed today that the terms would be ready by Saturday, as scheduled.

Reparation is one of the big sticking points, owing to the inability of the conferees to agree on what Germany will be able to pay. Reaching such an agreement will naturally have a direct effect on the entire economic program; the larger the amount the more economic opportunities the Germans must have in order to pay.

By United Press.

Paris, March 25—Two British monitors have arrived in Budapest after being fired on enroute, it was reported in dispatches received through diplomatic channels today. They proceeded to the Hungarian capital along the Danube from Belgrade.

One British patrol boat was said to have been seized by the Hungarians, but was returned later with apologies. Reports received here declare that American representatives in Budapest have been assured of every protection and may be asked to remain. Martial law has been proclaimed in Hungary and the death penalty prescribed for armed resistance, robbery or plundering.

BERLIN DEMONSTRATIONS

Spirit of Restlessness is Becoming Evident Throughout All Germany.

By United Press.

Berlin, March 25—The Russian and Hungarian soviet governments have called for a world-wide uprising of the proletariat, according to advices received here today from Budapest.

While agreeing to a defensive and offensive alliance with the Hungarians, Premier Lenin is said to have declared his opposition to an armed Bolshevik crusade at this time preferring to use propaganda and money with the help of the foreign proletariat to win over the Bourgeoisie.

All classes in Hungary are reported to be joining the communists who are raising a huge army in the hope of combining with the Russians in a war against the entente. They plan to make their initial drive against the Czechoslovaks and Rumanians.

Increased restlessness is becoming evident throughout Germany. East Prussians are said to be arming and preparing for civil war if Danzig is awarded to Poland. They have adopted the battle cry "death rather than become Polish."

Several strong demonstrations have occurred in Berlin, Breslau and Danzig in opposition to annexation of Danzig and the Saar valley and in favor of President Wilson's 14 points.

These demonstrations are led by Matthias Erzberger, Finance Minister Schiffe and other prominent officials. Sailors at Bremen are reported to have refused to allow merchant ships to leave that port to be turned over to the allies.

It also decided to choose a directorate from its members to supervise government commissioners and prohibit the sale of alcohol to all except workers and guards.

Obituary.

Mrs. Ida Goss, wife of Joseph L. Goss, was born in Ratcliff Grove community, May 16, 1868, died at the hospital in Sellersburg, March 21, 1919, being 50 years, 10 months and 5 days old. About a month ago she was taken ill with influenza and this was followed by serious complications which necessitated an operation from which she never recovered. Mrs. Goss was a daughter of Mark and Nancy McOsker deceased. She lived with her parents in the Ratcliff Grove neighborhood until her marriage at which time she moved to Brownstown where she lived until the time of her death. She was married to Joseph L. Goss March 26, 1884. To them three children were born, Ruby deceased. Mrs. Grace Goss of Seymour, and Mrs. Gertrude Coffey of Indianapolis. These daughters, together with the husband, her brother, Daniel McOsker of Muncie, and her sister, Mrs. Ella Brock, of Dupont, and a great number of relatives and beloved friends feel very keenly the loss of companionship, of a devoted wife, a loving mother, a warm hearted and loyal friend. Mrs. Goss leaves a monument of a splendid Christian character. She united with the Christian church at Brownstown at the age of 21 and has always given her interest and service to the Master's work. Wherever there was a human need she extended a ministering hand. She was always sympathetic with others in their joys and sorrows, quick to relieve distress and willing to deny herself for the good of others. Her departure leaves the community with a feeling of great loss but a comforting thought of blissful reunion some time, somewhere, assuages the grief of this hour of separation.

Jerome Boyles, recently discharged from the United States Marine Corp, went to Bloomington today where he will enroll as a student at Indiana University. Several weeks ago Boyles went to Bloomington for the same purpose but at the time could not arrange a satisfactory schedule of work. After spending a week with his fraternity, the Phi Delta Theta, he returned to his home here to await a more favorable time to resume his college work. In the fall when the Student Army Training Corp was in existence at Bloomington, Boyles, in company with Harry Hobbs Miller, enrolled at the university and became members of a voluntary drill team. Their age prevented enlistment in the training corp. Later Boyles enlisted with the Marines and went to Paris Island for training. While attending the local high school Boyles was a foremost participant in all forms of athletics. It is thought that he will "try his hand" at base ball and various other athletics always staged by I. U. in the spring.

Long Island City, N. Y.—"My daughter is a milliner and she got into a rundown condition, pale and had no appetite. After other medicines failed to help her, Vinol gave her a good appetite, built her up and completely restored her health."—Mrs. H. Ott.

GARFIELD BOHALL ASKS
RELEASE FROM PRISON

Father of Petitioners Tells State Board of Pardons How Tragedy Occurred.

Among the cases before the state board of pardons is that of Garfield Bohall, of this city, who is serving a sentence in the state prison at Michigan City for the murder of his brother, Thomas Bohall, in October 1910. The tragedy occurred here.

The father told the board that all the members of the family desired the release of the prisoner, including the widow of the man killed. It was presented to the board that the tragedy occurred after three of the Bohall brothers had spent the day drinking. The defense was that the revolver was accidentally discharged when Garfield attempted to part his brothers, who were seuffling. This is the first time that the case has been brought before the board.

JACKSON BOOM FOR GOVERNOR OPENED

he will be a candidate. General Omer Bundy, of Newcastle, the famous hero of Belleau Wood, on his recent visit to his home was mentioned as a prospective candidate on the Republican ticket, but it has been said that General Bundy is not seeking political glory, and would prefer to remain with the army, where he has been since he was 18 years old.

Col. Albert H. Tyndall, of Indianapolis, commander of the 150th regiment of the Rainbow division, now in Germany, and of which our own Battery C is a unit, has also been mentioned. Colonel Tyndall never took part in politics before he volunteered his service to his country, and whether or not the gubernatorial plum would appeal to him is not known. According to announcement made by the war department Col. Tyndall's command will be returned to Indiana next month, and he will probably be approached.

Politicians over the state have been casting their eyes toward Lafayette for some time and there is much likelihood that the next governor of Indiana may come from this city, Major Ed Jackson, who so successfully handled the military camp at Purdue university, is being besought by many to consent to make the race for the great honor. Whether or not he will is not known, for when approached today he declined to be interviewed, stating it was too early to consider a political question a year off. Lafayette has taken a keen interest in Major Jackson since he came to Camp Purdue on July 27, 1918. First, because of the remarkable record he made as a military commander, and secondly, because after the war was over and his country no longer needed his services, he decided to make Lafayette his home. He became associated with Clyde H. Jones in the practice of law, and they are recognized as one of the strongest and most capable law firms in the state.

Major Jackson is what is termed a self-made man. His father was a lumberman, and was engaged in the operation of a saw mill, which was moved to various sections of Indiana, where timber was available. Because of this fact, Major Jackson was handicapped in obtaining an education, he having once remarked that he had the honor of graduating from the third grade in school. Despite this fact, he always had a desire for higher learning and to take his place among the men who do things. His father eventually moved to Tipton county, and it was there Major Jackson became acquainted with the late Judge N. B. Nash. He dropped into Judge Nash's office one day and picked up a law book. The question of law was broached and Major Jackson told the jurist that he had always wanted to become a lawyer, but that his moderate circumstances would not permit him to go to law school. Judge Nash was impressed and offered him the use of his office and library. It was the opportunity young Jackson craved and in order to sustain his body while his mind was absorbing the epistles of Blackstone, Major Jackson sold the Indianapolis papers in Tipton and made $2.25 per week. He was an earnest student and read law for ten hours each day, for four months, until his father eventually moved to Henry county. For a time he was compelled to assist his father, and finally made the acquaintance of a lawyer there, who also gave him an opportunity to increase his learning. He was then 20 years old, and was admitted to the bar. His first case was assisting his lawyer friend who was trying a case for Major Jackson's uncle. From that time all his time was devoted to the practice of law. He had many hard struggles, but by perseverance he has been successful.

At the age of 21 he entered politics and has always taken an active interest in the Republican cause. He served two terms as prosecuting attorney of Henry county, filled the unexpired term of the late John M. Morris as judge of the circuit court and was subsequently elected to the bench, retiring from that office to answer his party's call and make the race for secretary of state, which he did in 1914. The party was split at the time, and although defeated, Major Jackson led the ticket by several thousand votes. In 1916 he again made the race and set aside all precedent, when he again led the ticket over the vote given the governor. Major Jackson served as secretary of state until August, 1917, when he voluntarily resigned from the office to answer the call of his country for men. He tendered his resignation to Governor Goodrich the first week in July, 1917, but it was not accepted until he was commissioned a captain and detailed to Camp Custer, Mich., from where he was sent to establish the military training camp at Toledo university, Toledo, O. From there Major Jackson was transferred to Camp Purdue and advanced to the rank of major. The fact that he was not sent to France has always been a keen disappointment to him and when discussing the question shortly after coming to Lafayette he said: "I enlisted to fight and would have preferred being sent across at once, but when a man gets in the United States army, he is no longer his own boss and must go where he is sent." It is doubtful if any post commander was ever more popular with the men under him than Major Jackson was with the soldier boys at Camp Purdue. While he believed in military discipline and military training he did not believe in harnessing youth and every privilege possible was afforded the several thousand young men who were under his command, and should he decide to make the race for governor of Indiana, he has ample reason to feel he will receive the undivided support of every boy that was stationed at Camp Purdue while he was the commanding officer.

"Try some of my bread, Daddy"

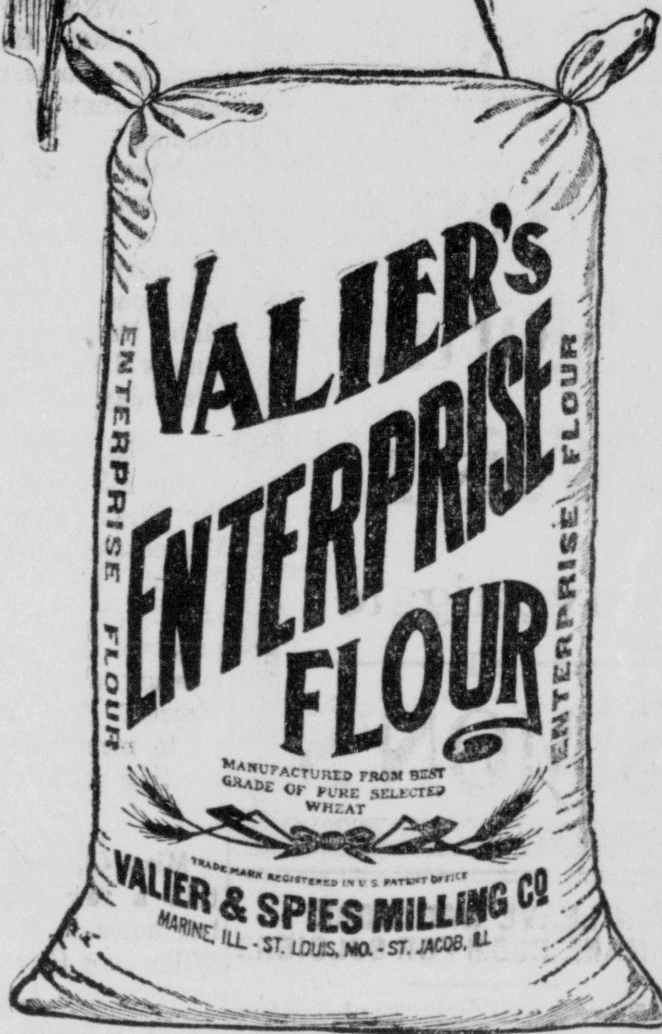

The younger generation is going in for home-baking. It is now recognized as a real art—taught and encouraged by the schools, not only because home-baking is an economy, but because it means such delicious eating.

Valier's Enterprise Flour is made for those who appreciate extra good results in home-baking. It is milled from only the choicest flour part of the highest grade wheat, by a special, slow, silk-sifting process. It is so far superior to ordinary flour that only a trial can make you realize the difference. You'll find it delightful to bake with such flour—and economical, too, because it makes so much more baking per sack than ordinary flour.

Phone your grocer for a sack of Valier's Enterprise Flour—today.

"Community" is Valier's high-grade popular priced flour. It has made hosts of friends.

COULDN'T FIND GIRL

Marine Returning From the War Took Her Picture Long Ago.

A handsome young man in a marine uniform jumped from an east-bound passenger train as it pulled up to the station at Seymour, Ind., and with a quick step walked up and down the platform, glancing hurriedly at each girl he met. His half-anger and half-anxious expression attracted the attention of a newspaper reporter, who offered assistance.

The marine explained he was a passenger on a troop train through Seymour 18 months ago. While the engine was coaling he stepped to the station platform and was soon conversing with an attractive young woman. They agreed to write, but in the excitement both forgot to give the other the name and address.

COYOTES' DEATH KNELL

Fencing of Stock Ranges in Many Places Sounds It.

The death knell of the coyote, long the bane of the stockman's existence, has sounded. The unattended parasite is rapidly becoming extinct. The fencing of the ranges, where practically every acre is stocked with cattle, has robbed the coyote of his hunting ground, where he was wont to prey upon calves and lambs and sick cattle and sheep.

Many tales are related of the cowardice of the coyote. They are true—except when he is cornered. Recently a drive, participated in by 250 horsemen, succeeded in encircling 60 coyotes.

As the circle narrowed the coyotes charged and all but nine escaped. These, with the help of dogs, were killed, but only after a battle in which half a dozen dogs were sacrificed. The nimbleness of the coyotes and the sharpness of their teeth accounted for the dogs.

EASTERN MANUFACTURERS GET LOWER FREIGHT RATES

Reductions Regarded as of Tremendous Influence in Building up Foreign Trade.

By United Press.

Washington, March 25—Eastern manufacturers apparently have won their fight for lower freights on traffic destined for the far east and Australia. The railroad administration today announced it would soon put into effect reduced rates on shipments consigned from points east of the Missouri river to Japan, China, Australia and the Philippine Islands.

Officials here regarded the rate reductions as tremendously important in building up foreign trade which must be routed through Pacific sea-ports. The department of commerce and railroad administration have had hundreds of appeals from industrial leaders for lower rates and raising the argument on the fact that unless they were given action through reduced transportation charges, they could not compete with European manufacturers. Their arguments have been particularly insistent since the armistice was signed. In the fight for rate reduction, Secretary Redfield has taken a decided stand favoring the move.

It was pointed out in communications to the department of commerce that a large majority of the articles, sold in the far east, are manufactured in the eastern half of the United States. Through ocean rates from Atlantic ports are regarded as prohibitive so far as competing with Europe is concerned. The only road open to the roads was to establish the trade was to haul the traffic across the United States, it was explained.

The new rates represent a substantial reduction in the land haul. Trans-Pacific rates were cut by the shipping board two months ago.

SUFFRAGE LEADER URGES LEAGUE OF WOMEN VOTERS

Mrs. Carrie Chapman Catt Addresses Suffrage Association in St. Louis.

By United Press.

St. Louis, March 25—With a definite map of its future presented in an address by Mrs. Carrie Chapman Catt last night, the first business session of the National Woman's Suffrage association began here today.

"The league of women voters," proposed by the national president last night will be presented at today's business session.

The non-partisan, non-sectarian force of women was expected to be formulated along the following lines: To use its influence to secure final enfranchisement of the women of every state and in foreign lands.

To remove the remaining legal discriminations against women in the codes and constitutions of various states.

To make democracy safe for the nation and safe for the world.

Under the third aim Mrs. Catt asserted that the war revealed "many flaws in our civilization." One of these, "illiteracy," she declared, "is a national danger." She laid the long delay of woman's enfranchisement to illiteracy. "Had these millions of illiterate foreigners and natives not offered dangerous temptation to unscrupulous men" there would have been no world war, she said, had this problem been met 50 years ago.

Will Their Happiness Continue After You're Gone?

Only three men out of one hundred leave their families enough to live on, according to the court records. That is, as much as $10,000.

Eighteen men out of every 100 leave a home but no income to their families.

And out of every 100 married men who die, 35 of them do not leave a dollar of property to their wives or children.

A few men are unfortunate—many more are improvident.

It does not take a great amount for a man to get in the first class—those leaving $10,000—the saving of $3 a week from the time a man is 25 until he is 55 will do it.

But whatever you do, get out of the class that leaves the wife and little ones without a dollar. Start a savings account at the Jackson County Loan and Trust Co. and you will soon be well on the road, so that you need not fear for the future.

SHOW LOVE FOR CHILDREN

Fondness of American Soldier for the Little Ones is One of His Characteristics.

There are no rules against soldiers fraternizing with children, and if there were it is a question how many more generals we would have to have to enforce it.

This fondness of the American soldier for children impresses itself upon all who see him. The French remark upon it here along the Rhine and sometimes frown. That is because they do not understand the doughboy.

The Pollu, when he sees a German man, woman or child, thinks of ravaged France and four years of suffering. The doughboy, when he sees a German child, thinks of a little brother or sister or son or daughter back home. He has already forgotten the suffering of the battlefield.

The other day I was coming down the Rheinstrasse when I saw a doughboy and a German lad of seven or eight years standing in front of one of the many toy stores in the city. They entered the store. I waited until they came out, and the boy walked away with a bundle under his arm.

I asked the soldier about it. As he turned away I saw he had two wound stripes. "Maybe it wasn't right and maybe it was," he said. "Maybe he is a Boche, but he's a kid all the same, and I bought him a Christmas present." Then he laughed, and asked: "And what do you think the little son of a gun wanted? A rifle."—Letter in New York Times.

South Dakota Farmer Objects to Neighbors, Sells His Place and Will Move Away.

Sioux Falls, S. D.—Refusing to live longer in Lincoln township, Douglas county, because it is populated almost exclusively with persons of German birth or descent, William McMahon, a farmer of the township, announces that he has sold his farm in "Germany," as he terms the township, and will locate where the English language is spoken.

McMahon has felt lonely since the election in November. When the vote was counted in Lincoln township it was found that he had cast the only Republican vote and that all other electors in the township had voted the Nonpartisan league ticket, which is alleged to have been backed by every German and pro-German.

"Tuning Up" The Motor

YOU have noticed, of course, that there is a big difference in the way that automobiles run. Some of them get over the ground, but the motor "misses" and the power is unsteady and jerky. The driver never knows just how his car is going to behave.

Then there are other cars that fairly "skim" over the roads with the soft, purring of the motor. You have noticed that such cars respond promptly and easily to the touch of the driver. There is always plenty of power for speed and hills.

The difference in the machines is the way they are adjusted.

Our mechanical experts know just what your car needs so that it will run with the responsive, purring sound.

Mr. A. H. Wagner, who served the government as a motor expert during the war, is at the head of our mechanical department. He has a personal knowledge of all makes of cars and can tell you just what is wrong with your machine.

On March 24 we will have two new mechanics so that your work can be done promptly. Bring your cars around and let us inspect them for you.

as popular in rural communities as it is in the industrial centers. Many of the factories here begin work at 7 o'clock which under the new schedule means 6 a. m. Instead of quitting work at 6 o'clock in the afternoon, they are relieved at 5 o'clock. It is this feature that appeals to many people, especially to those who tend their own gardens, as it gives them another hour after working time to look after their gardens.

It really makes little difference to farmers during the summer months what time the clock may show as they work from early morning to late at night in order to take care of the large amount of work that must be done at that season of the year. However, the majority of farmers would prefer the standard time to the new daylight saving hours as a matter of convenience when they leave the farm.

The change in time will be made as it was last year and no difficulty is anticipated. Most of the trains that are due to leave their terminals about midnight will be held for one hour so that they will reach their destinations as shown by the revised schedule.

CHAPTER XXII.

A Visit to Maldonado.

Mrs. Hardin's descent on the office that afternoon was successful, but not satisfactory. She had found the manager brief to curtness. She was given no excuse to linger. She traced Rickard's manner to the presence of MacLean, and snatched at her cue. She, too, could be businesslike and brief. Her errand was of business; her manner should recommend her!

Rickard had seen her making straight toward the ramada. It was not the first time; her efforts to line her nest had involved them all and often. But today, he was in a bad humor.

"For the Lord's sake," he groaned to MacLean as she approached.

MacLean's grin covered relief. He had never heard Rickard express himself on the subject before. "The dead-set Hardin's wife was making at Casey," was the choice gossip and speculation of the young engineers on the Delta. MacLean had a bet up on the outcome. He grinned more securely.

"I am not going to spare any more carpenters," growled Rickard. It was an inauspicious day for Mrs. Hardin's visit. Things had gone wrong. Vexations were piling up. A tilt with Hardin that morning, a telegram from Marshall; he was feeling sore. Desperately, they needed labor. Wooster had just reported, venomously, it appeared to Rickard's spleen, increasing drunkenness among the Indians.

Gerty's ruffles swept in. Her dress, the blue mull with the lace medallions, accented the hue of her eyes, and looked deliciously cool that glaring desert day. Her parasol, of pongee, was lined with the same baby hue. Her dainty fairness and childish affability should have made an oasis in that strenuous day, but Rickard's disintegration of temper was too complete. He rose stiffly to meet her, and his manner demanded her errand.

She told it to him, plaintively. Her eyes were appealing, infantile. Would it be too much to ask, would Mr. Rickard mind in the least, he must be perfectly frank and tell her if they would be in the way at all, but while this hot spell lasted, could they, the three of them, eat in the mess tent with the men?

"Surely!" Rickard met it heartily. She would find it rough, but if she could stand it, yes, he thought it a good idea.

And then there was nothing for her to do but go. Her retreat was graceful, without haste, dignified. She smiled a farewell at MacLean, who was watching the approach of Innes Hardin and Estrada. Rickard did not see the aborted entrance of Hardin's sister and the young Mexican. He was itching to be at his work.

He let out a growl when Mrs. Hardin was out of earshot.

"Shucks! What in Halifax do women come to a place like this for? There's Hardin—brings in two women to cook for him, and now, please may they all eat with the men?"

His secretary subdued a chuckle. He was visualizing a procession of boxes of choice Havanas—from Bodefeldt, Hamlin and the rest of the gang. He need not buy a smoke for a year.

Rickard threw himself back in his chair. "Take this letter, MacLean. To Marshall." Then his worry diverted him. "Who in thunder is selling liquor to my Indians?"

"Hold on; that letter can wait. You get the horses up, MacLean, and we'll ride down to Maldonado's. It's his place to stop this liquor business, not mine."

A few hours later they were approaching the adobe walls of Maldonado. They found the gate locked. A woman, whose beauty had faded into a tragic whisper, a ghastly twilight of suggestion, came to their knock, and unbarred the gate for the white strangers. Mystery hung over the enclosure like a pall.

Rickard told his errand. Maldonado sputtered and swore. By the mother of Mary the Virgin, that thing would be stopped. He showed to the seniors, with pride, his badge. He was a rale; he was there to uphold the law. He had caught some of those drunken Indians on the road. He had brought them here.

Maldonado showed three men in a locked shed, deep in drunken stupor. He thought the liquor was obtained somewhere back in the sandhills. He would find the place. But the senior must be patient; his hands were so full.

Both men were glad to get away from the place and Maldonado. Obviously he was a brute; undoubtedly he was a liar.

SALE OF HOGS RESULTS IN DAMAGE SUIT FOR $4,000

Holmes Thompson, Cortland, is Plaintiff in Action Against W. B. Gallimore, of Seymour.

A suit for $4,000 damages which was filed by Holmes Thompson, of Cortland, against W. B. Gallimore, of this city, was on trial in the circuit court today. The suit is the result of a hog sale which was made last winter. The plaintiff alleges in his complaint that he purchased the hogs from the defendant through Albert Doane, agent, and that they were placed in pens with other hogs; that shortly after the plaintiff purchased the hogs they developed cholera; that some of them died and that the disease spread to others in the pen, causing a loss to the plaintiff of about $4,000.

The morning was taken up in the selection of a jury which was sworn about noon. The plaintiff is represented by Judge John M. Lewis and T. M. Honan, of this city, and the defendant engaged Judge O. H. Montgomery, of Seymour, and John Brannan, of Brownstown. The trial promises to develop into one of the hardest legal battles that has been staged in circuit court at this term.

SLUMP IS SHOWN IN SEYMOUR HOG RECEIPTS

Price of $18 Was Paid at Local Pens—Transportation Problem is Solved.

During March there has been a decided slump in the hog market here. The price paid at the local pens today was $18 per hundred.

In December and January when the price of hogs ranged around 16½ cents per pound at the Seymour pens the hog sales assumed their highest tide. At that time the government price was 17½ cents. The sudden rush to the market delayed transportation for several weeks until official steps were taken to eliminate the causes of congested traffic. Through all the winter the Indianapolis market never ran above $20.00 per hundred pounds.

Last week one local pen had only three hogs weighing 400 pounds or over. The decrease in sales has also found a decrease in size. It has been found a rule that the farmers and stock growers are not allowing their hogs to run over 400 pounds prior to the sale.
